$300,000 FIRE AT LIVESTOCK SHOW

HORSE AND MULE BARN SWEEPED CLEAN BY FLAMES—MOST OF THE HOGS AND SHEEP SAVED

[By Associated Press.]
Fort Worth, Texas, March 14.—Upwards of a thousand head of stock were burned to death in a fire this morning which swept all the horse and mule barns on the south side of Exchange avenue from the new Exchange building on Marine creek to the Swift packing house. The hog and sheep sheds just west of the Swift plant were also swept.

The loss is probably about $300,000, but the exact amount will not be known until night, as much of the fine stock was turned loose to make its own escape and is not yet accounted for.

Four men were badly burned, including Murray Howard and L. E. Walton. The others' names are unknown.

Nearly all the fine hogs and sheep here for exhibition were saved. It is rumored that the fire was started by a man cooking his breakfast in a barn.

"PRINCE AND PILOT"

Are the Names Selected for our Match Team of horses. Names Suggested by Miss Bernardine McKnight, College, Texas

SECOND PRIZE

Mr. E. F. Parks,
Bryan, Texas.

Dear Sir:—I name the six-year-old horse "Albus," meaning white, and the five-year-old horse "Dux," meaning leader. My reasons for naming this team as above, is that they are owned by a Leader in the Commercial life of Bryan, and that a clean deal will be given every customer at this great Furniture Store.

Yours truly,
Edna Wickes.

We have published 2 second prizes because of their merit and our appreciation and compliment paid our business. We thank each and every little lady for their letters and names suggested.—E. F. PARKS.

FIRST PRIZE

Mr. E. F. Parks,
Undertaking Dept.,
Bryan, Texas.

Dear Sir:—I think Prince and Pilot would be appropriate names for your beautiful team of hearse horses. These names are short, easily pronounced and will soon be recognized by their owners. The horses are very closely related as well as very similar in appearance.

The names Prince and Pilot while not easily confused, yet bear a certain resemblance, due to a similarity of sound. Then too both these names are closely associated with the most sacred and beautiful philosophy of all time. It is in death these horses are to serve their chief function. And it is in death that we hope of a Pilot and a Prince for all. I have crossed the bar. The very color of these horses as well as the purpose they are to serve suggest the appropriateness of these names. For do we not find in sacred literature many references to the white-robed Prince, and the Pilot that is to be? The names Prince and Pilot are simple, appropriate and suggestive. What more could be wanted? There are no reasons against the adoption of these names; there are very good reasons why they should be adopted.

BENARDINE MCKNIGHT.

SECOND PRIZE

Dear Mr. Parks:

"Point" and "Pinto" are short names for the horses, agreeable in sound, yet describing them plainly without flourishes. The names are fitting because the horses are part of the E. F. Parks establishment, which goes strictly on its own merits and never misrepresents.

Sincerely,
Della Lawrence.
